

Landscape Photography Course. 1 day - £125.00

This is a one day course for those of you who would like to become accomplished landscape photographers. The whole day is spent outdoors, where you'll be doing practical tasks based on new information you'll be learning as the day progresses.

This course will specifically cover:

Intro session – an overview of the key elements, including aperture, shutter speed and composition, and how you'll be experimenting with them throughout the day.

Elements of the course:

- Aperture, shutter speed, composition, Lighting, use of equipment
- Introduction – how hold the cameras properly and setting up the tripod.
- Examples of types of landscapes / landscape photographers etc.
- Wide angle lenses – long & short, focal length and zoom.
- Compositional styles – expand
- Horizon, rule of thirds, position of main subject.
- Metering – what type to use for the situation
- Ideas on utilising varying light and weather conditions.
- Lighting – Contrast, soft, hard, shadow, shadow detail, hi-light detail, metering.
- Use of filters – Neutral Density filters (ND), grey grad filters, polarising. UV / Skylight.
- Different techniques of using the camera – unusual viewpoints etc.
- Advanced composition techniques, focal lengths and lenses.
- Portraiture in landscapes & use of scale.
- Motion blur.
- Shooting into the light – against the light.
- Achieving flare free pictures

You will then be given a 10 shot brief to achieve a variety of shots, based on the new information you have learnt. You will have the tutor along-side you at all times to help you with your techniques and provide you with instant feedback on your images

All participants will need to be at a competent level of photography – with knowledge & understanding of the manual capabilities & controls of their camera - aperture, shutter speed, ISO, white balance, composition and exposure control.

You will need your own camera, a tripod and outdoor clothing.

Testimonial:

"I travel quite a bit with my job, so I have always taken a lot of photos. Since I attended the Red Cloud Photography course I have been able to take great photos – a really useful course – I would definitely recommend it" – James Crosby, 16th April
